©SGHBaillargeon 2017

Harry Potter and the other wizards in England purchase their supplies in the famous Diagon Alley in London but have you ever wondered where other wizards shop? In North America, the Wandlyn Way takes care of their needs.

Wands & Incantations

The 3rd shop in Wandlyn Way was opened Tobias Bartholomew. He built a wand shaped tower to advertise his merchandise and lived in the 2nd and 3rd floors above the shop. Ladders provide access to the upper floors and the 3rd floor has a railing around the opening in case Tobias walks in his sleep.

The Wand shop kit includes everything shown in the exterior photo at left.

Printed flooring, railing and ladders, windows, carved door, hanging sign, weather vane and carved base.

The base size is 3.6" w x 6" deep.

The shop itself is 3" deep and 9.75" high with 3 floors.

Price $75 US/ $90 CDN

Shipping is $17 in Canada and the US and $24 internationally.

The building would also make a great castle keep particularly when added to the #2 Alchemist shop.

A complete set of interior furnishings is available. Special wizard designs with stars and wands are carved in several pieces.

The set includes furniture for the ground floor: Wall shelf unit, carved shop counter, high stool, scroll cabinet, carved cupboard wand boxes, wands and scrolls.

The Second floor is the sitting room and it contains; a small table, carved throne, Griffon chair, Tudor sideboard and fireplace.

The 3rd floor has a wizard's bed and carved armoire.

The 12 piece complete set is $85. Shipping is included when ordered with the shop.

Please email orders to gayle@petworthminiatures.com

The kits will ship by the beginning of May.

The entire street will be available as separate shop kits. The street contains several different architectural styles in keeping with North American building styles as well as a few fond reminders of its Olde England roots. Each shop base is the same depth and the cobbled street in front of each shop joins them together. They can be lined up in any order. The kits will be issued every 2 or 3 months and initial orders for each will be accepted until the 15th of that month. The kits will be available again after the original orders are shipped.
